General Comments:	Alistair was a joy to have in my classroom. She conducts herself in a professional manner and was very respectful and eager to learn. Alistair's lessons were well-prepared and complete. She started with effective "hooks," previewing new topics with students by showing how new information related to their own life experiences. Alistair's delivery of information in front of the class is smooth and effective. She explains information in an interesting way so students can understand easily. One of her greatest strengths is her uncanny, natural ability to check for understanding. She instinctively asks and monitors at appropriate times to make sure all students are grasping the information. Alistair did a great job of creating challenging yet worthwhile assessments. She also monitored and assisted groups as was necessary. I would also say she possesses the intangible needed to be a great teacher: approachability, tact, humor, and the ability to be stern when needed. All in all I would say Alistair has the "it" factor administration would be looking for in a future teacher. I would strongly recommend Alistair to any future employer.
